Original faculty and staff.

Would like to acknowledge the entire original teaching (lay and religious) and office staff who helped shape not only the student body but the "Curley Way. " The teaching staff (religious and lay) and office staff were just meeting each other for the first time. The school was still being built when it first opened its doors and together, these excellent teachers and role models worked hard (under difficult physical circumstances) and established the foundation upon which the Curley spirit and format was built. Peace and all good things!
